Marshall Tells Why No Japs Fighting In Korea

Fear Move Would Bring Russia In

Sino-Soviet Defense Pact Is Aimed At Japan, Senators Told

WASHINGTON, May 9—(AP)—Secretary Marshall said today no Japanese are serving with United Nations troops in Korea largely because a Chinese-Russia defense pact is aimed at Japan.

He implied the fear was that using Japanese against the Chinese Communists might bring the Russians into the Korean war.

The Defense Secretary was in the witness chair for the third day before the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees. They are inquiring into the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Far Eastern commander and the policy differences back of his removal.

Marshall, in his testimony, also said:

1. MacArthur had to be removed because his statements raised the issue of "what voice spoke from this country in the matter of foreign policy."

2. Various statements from MacArthur—all pressing for a stepped up war against the Chinese Communists—had created "uneasiness" among U. S. Allies and "threatened to leave us in a situation of going it alone."

Senator Byrd (D-Va) brought up the question of the Japanese. For months past, some lawmakers have been contending that Japanese volunteers ought to be permitted to serve with the U. N. forces.

Japs Reported Willing

There have been reports many Japanese were willing, some of them highly trained pilots and other military specialists.

Noting that the Sino-Russian pact is directed at any resumption of Japanese aggression, Marshall testified:

The fact that the pact directly referred to the Japanese—possible intervention on the mainland of Asia—I know controlled the action of this government in not using any Japanese whatsoever in Korea. Beyond that, Senator, I think I will have to pass it up to the State Department."

Secretary of State Dean Acheson is to be a witness later and Marshall meant the senators should ask Acheson about that.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis) asked Marshall if, during his mission to China in 1945-46, he ever consulted General MacArthur about the formation of what was to be or what resulted in our China policy.

Marshall went to China at that time as a special representative of President Truman. His mission was to try to bring an end to the civil strife in China between Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government and the Chinese Communists.

Marshall told Wiley there was "no formal consultation" but that he saw MacArthur in March, 1946, and "undoubtedly" he made some comment to me for basis of comment about the China situation.

Not Consulted

Wiley said that what he got from Marshall's answer was that "to your knowledge, this man, who has had that vast experience in the Philippines, who had fought his way up, and lived off and on twenty-three years out there, was not consulted by those in government who were planning the policy in the East, am I right?"

Marshall: "I couldn't answer."

300 Planes Rip Sinuiju Airfield

Allies Cripple Red Air Arm In War's Biggest Mass Raid

TOKYO, May 9—(AP)—More than 300 Allied planes ripped to pieces part of the Chinese Red air force today in the biggest air raid of the Korean war.

They blasted and burned Sinuiju air field in northwest Korea where the Chinese were reported gathering their Russian made warplanes for the first big Red air strike. Seventy to 100 planes had been spotted on the ground there. The attack was made by 312 fighter planes. They came from every United Nations air field in Korea.

Eighty Russian type jet fighters were parked on an air field at Antung, Manchuria across the Yalu river from Sinuiju.

Fifty rose. But Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge, Fifth Air Force commander, said only 13 crossed the Yalu. A few air fights flared.

However, Lt. Robert Dixon, Newton, Iowa, said the Red jets were out in strength.

"It's A Massacre"

"It's a massacre," he said, "and they are being massacred, not us."

However, Partridge reported only one Mig was damaged; none downed.

The big blow at Sinuiju followed front line reports that Chinese were angered at Russian failure to supply tanks or planes for their spring offensive. The air show completely overshadowed ground operations. Red troops continued to pull back from armored Allied jabs.

Allied intelligence reports said about 70 to 100 camouflaged planes had been massed in Sinuiju revetments. The long expected Red air strike was believed imminent.

Then the Allies struck. American Air Force and South African fighter planes hit in two waves.

The first wave swept through heavy flak, rocketing, bombing and strafing anti-aircraft guns.

The second wave hit revetments and the air field with high explosive, fragmentation and fire bombs.

"I don't think the Reds will fly any more planes off that strip," said Capt. H. L. Williams, Watonga, Okla. "The Napalm (jellied gasoline fire bombs) covered the whole place."

U.N. pilots were guided by "beautiful photos," said Maj. Joe Baglio of Roslindale, Mass. They were "so clear they could see the planes through the camouflage on them."

Report Direct Hits

Returning pilots reported they hit the revetments squarely. But, in the words of Col. Donald K. Yost of Princeton, N. J., they couldn't see whether they sheltered planes—"they were so well camouflaged."

"We watched the buildup of enemy planes in this area," said Maj. Carl G. Carolson of Denver, intelligence officer, "and when it got so far we had to hit it. We think a good job was done."

AP Correspondent William Barnard reported no U.N. planes or airmen were lost. The damaged Red jet was hit by long-range fire.

Moran Found Guilty, Could Get 5 Years

NEW YORK, May 9—(AP)—James J. Moran—holder of a lifetime $15,000-a-year city job just a few weeks ago—today faced the possibility of five years in a federal prison as a Kefauver committee perjurer.

Moran, a buddy of ex-mayor William O'Dwyer for many years, was under conviction for lying about his relations with Brooklyn numbers racketeer Louis Weber.

Sentence will be imposed Friday by Federal Judge Charles A. Dewey. The maximum possible penalty for the perjury conviction is five years and a $2,000 fine.

Moran's counsel, Joseph L. Delaney, said he would advise Moran to appeal the sentence. No witnesses were called in Moran's defense, and he did not take the stand.

The 49-year-old politician is the first U. S. Senate crime committee witness to be brought to trial here.

The guilty verdict was reported late yesterday by a jury of seven women and five men after a trial lasting less than four court days.

Propose More Aid to Europe

WASHINGTON, May 9—(AP)—The United States should give further economic aid to Western Europe to supplement direct military support being supplied to meet the threat of aggression, a group of businessmen said today.

The group—the research and policy committee of the Committee for Economic Development—estimated the non-Communist nations of continental Europe face a dollar deficit of perhaps $1,000,000,000 largely as a result of the Western arms build-up. Germany and Italy particularly also are short of sterling, it said.

Prepare For All-Out War, Nation Told

Truman Outlines "Concrete Plan" For Full Mobilization

WASHINGTON, May 9—(AP)—President Truman said today a "definite concrete plan" for greater military strength and industrial mobilization has been developed in case Moscow is "reckless enough" to start a third world war.

In a speech for some 400 industrialists attending a meeting of the interior department's industry council, Mr. Truman said peace in Korea "would not put an end to the global danger of Soviet aggression."

Therefore, he said, the U. S. must:

▶ Build up enough military strength to convince the Kremlin that it ought not to start a world war."

▶ Prepare to mobilize quickly for war "in case the Kremlin is reckless enough, in spite of everything, to plunge the world into a general conflict."

To do these things, Mr. Truman added, the nation's military and civilian defense experts have prepared a concrete plan providing for bigger armed forces and laying the foundatoin for "complete mobilization, if that should become necessary."

"We must carry out that plan as rapidly as we possibly can," he asserted, and he added:

"We want to reach our goal just as fast as the men can be trained, the plants built, and the equipment and supplies turned out."

Sure of Victory

The President said he is sure the U. S., with other free nations, can achieve victory in the struggle with Soviet communism, but it will take hard work by all, and the kind of patriotism that puts "the national interest ahead of selfish interest."

He said the "inflationary gap" in the next year or two, as expanding military production creates civilian goods shortages, is "going to get worse before it gets better."

To combat this, he asserted, inflation must be hit hard by these measures:

▶ Extending controls on prices, wages, credit and rents without "special exemptions for special groups."

▶ Maintaining price and wage controls for the next two or three years at least.

▶ Levying heavier taxes.

Congress has not yet taken any positive action toward voting the $10,000,000,000 annual tax increase Mr. Truman has urged, and in an obvious reference to that fact the President said he would be delighted if each of his businessmen hearers would "urge your congressman and senators to raise taxes."

"But when you do that," he added, "be sure to urge them to extend price and wage controls, too.

"And those who are spreading the foolish notion that we can get through this period without price and wage controls are doing the country a great harm," he declared.

In calling for a "good, strong anti-inflation" program and "extensive use of production controls," the President said "we have only begun to feel the effect of military demands on our supplies of raw materials, manpower, and plant capacity."

"But we are going to feel this effect severely in the months to come," he said. "The largest part of the problem is still ahead of us."

CRISIS IN PANAMA

PANAMA, Panama, May 9—(AP) — Constitution - switching President Arnulfo Arias and the police army which put him in power appeared on the verge of an open break today — but both factions said they hoped bloodshed could be averted.

Foresee No Scare Buying

Food Prices Seen Stable Through Early Summer

WASHINGTON, May 9—(AP)—The Agriculture Department predicted today that currently high food prices will remain fairly stable from now at least until early summer.

This forecast was based upon the assumption there will be no change in the international situation which might encourage scare buying by consumers.

Supplies of most foods were said to be adequate to maintain civilian consumption at least as large as a year earlier.

15 Percent Higher

Retail food prices for the first quarter of this year were said to have averaged almost 15 percent higher than a year earlier. Largest increases were reported for meats, eggs, fats and oils, and processed fruits and vegetables.

The department said it is likely food prices will tend to increase more in the latter part of the year. It said the military and export demand will be stronger then and contribute to the upward price pressure started by the Korean War.

"As more of the nation's production is geared to the defense effort and essential industrial capacity is expanded in the latter half of 1951, supplies of some consumer goods — particularly the durable commodities and housing —may be reduced from present levels," the agency said in a report.

Heavy Turnout In Primary Is Surprise

3,281 Votes Cast In G.O.P. Contests For Council Nominations

Marion Republicans yesterday turned out to vote on the school bond issue and while they were at the polls they cast 3,281 votes in their party primary. Only contests were council nominations.

This heavy primary vote upset advance predictions by election board officials and was far beyond the most optimistic hopes of Republican party officials.

Both expected that with luck the apparently listless primary might attract the 1,850 voters who trooped to the polls in the 1949 mayoralty primaries when there was a contest. The school bond issue was credited with drawing voters to the polls.

Haldeman Leads Field

Robert G. Haldeman of 568 Windsor street led the field in this race, polling 2,504 votes. Incumbent Councilman-at-Large Tom Clark of 226 Hane avenue won a chance for re-election by polling

Mayor Robinson, L. M. Sager Head Tickets for Fall Vote

Incumbent Mayor Harold F. Robinson will head the Republican party's slate of candidates for next fall's general election. He will be opposed by the Democratic nominee for mayor, Lawrence M. Sager of 205 Orchard street.

Both candidates were unopposed for the nominations.

Mayor Robinson will be seeking re-election to his second term as mayor. He was first elected two years ago after having served for eight years as a member of City Council.

A native of Columbus, Mayor Robinson has lived in Marion for the last 40 years. He was educated in the Columbus and Marion City Schools. An electrical contractor, he lives at 241 North Greenwood street.

Councilman Six Years

He served as First Ward councilman for six years, four of them as acting president pro tem. He then served two years as councilman-at-large, during which he was chairman of the Council Finance Committee. Mayor Robinson is the father of five children.

Mr. Sager is making his first bid for public office. A native of Marion County, he was born and reared in LaRue but has lived in Marion several years. He is a real estate broker and maintains an office at his home on Orchard street.

Waldo Bonds, Levy Pass By Nearly 9 to 1

An $160,000 bond issue for improvements and an addition to the Waldo school and a four-mill operating levy passed by whopping big majorities at a special election held in the school district yesterday.

The bond issue received 350 "for" votes and only 42 "against" for a percentage of about 89 percent. It needed but 60 percent of the votes cast for passage.

The levy for school operating expenses did even better—360 for and but 33 against, or nearly 92 percent of the votes cast.

C. D. Pilkington, superintendent of the Waldo school, said this morning no time would be lost in getting the building program under way. He said the residents of the district had expressed their desire for the program by their overwhelming approval of the issue.

He said an architectural firm would be employed in the very near future to begin work on the final plans for the combination auditorium and gymnasium which will be erected next to the present school.

Mr. Pilkington said he had never heard of a bond issue or tax levy receiving such overwhelming support at any election.

Woman Picked As Candidate In Newark

By The Associated Press

Ohio voters re-nominated present mayors in Akron, Canton and Youngstown in primary elections yesterday but turned down incumbents in some smaller cities.

And the city of Newark for the first time in its history nominated a woman for mayor. The present mayor lost out in his bid for a place on the November ballot.

Newark Democrats chose a county worker as their candidate. Katherine Scoles, a Probate Court deputy, wound up at the top of a field of Four Democratic candidates. Mayor Edwin J. Haynes, Democrat, finished third.

A retired school teacher, John W. Swank, won the Republican nomination.

A number of larger Ohio cities still have to hold their primaries. Cleveland will hold a non-partisan primary Oct. 2, Columbus will have a non-partisan primary Aug. 14, while Dayton's non-partisan primary is the same day.

Toledo has an Oct. 2 primary to pick councilmen who will name a mayor and hire a city manager. Cincinnati has no primary election.

Gets New Son, Council Nomination Same Day

Mrs. Fralich gave birth to the couple's third child, a son, at City Hospital at 8:30 last night.

On his way home from the hospital the father recalled he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for councilman from the 6th Ward. He stopped in at the Star's election quarters at the courthouse, discovered he had beaten his opponent, incumbent Councilman Clarence Sanden, by 315 votes.

Fralich's only comment was, "I took no chances. I had Mrs. Fralich cast her vote before she went to the hospital at 6 p.m."

U.N. Cease-Fire Order Defied in Palestine

TEL AVIV, ISRAEL, May 9—(AP)—Despite a United Nations Security Council order demanding an immediate cease-fire, shooting broke out again today on the Israeli-Syrian border.

Dispatches from the Israeli frontier said Syrians opened fire near Tel El Meteila, scene of last week's bitter and bloody battles. An Israeli army spokesman here charged that Syrians had entrenched themselves in the demilitarized zone north of the Sea of Galilee and fortified their positions during the night.

Gets One Of City's Largest Majorities

Approved by 76 Percent of Voters, 4,582 to 1,443

Marion's $2,900,000 school bond issue passed yesterday by more than a three-to-one majority.

The largest bond issue in local school history, it garnered 76 percent of the total vote cast.

It needed only 60 percent to pass. It drew one of the largest majority votes of any special issue in the city's election history.

The $2,900,000, plus nearly $1,100,000 left from a previous bond issue, will be used to build a new senior high school and for improvements in existing school buildings.

The bond issue failed to poll a plurality vote in only one precinct. That was Precinct D of the Second Ward where only 48 voted for the issue and 50 voted against it.

In no ward did the issue fail to get 60 percent of the total vote cast. The following are the percentages of the total vote it got in each ward and in Marion Township outside the city: 1st Ward, 69 percent; 2nd Ward, 60 percent; 3rd Ward 68 percent; 4th Ward, 78 percent; 5th Ward, 83 percent; 6th Ward, 84 percent and Marion Township, 90 percent.

Top Precinct

Precinct B of the 6th Ward and the combined precinct of Marion Township North and South both gave the bond issue its greatest majority. In both it polled 90 percent of the total vote. In Precinct 6-B the vote in favor of the bond issue was 290 to 33 while in the township precinct it polled 103 in favor to 12 opposed.

The Marion Board of Education will lose no time in proceeding with the building program.

Board President J. D. Torrance said today, "The school board will act with all possible speed to apply these funds the public has voted to meet the critical needs our school system faces now."

Board To Meet Monday

The board will meet Monday and instruct the architects to go ahead with detailed working drawings for use of the contractor in constructiong the new senior high school building.

As soon as detailed plans and specifications are completed the the board will advertise for bids from contractors to build the senior high school. The contract is expected to be awarded by October.

"Barring total war we hope to have the senior high school completed at the end of approximately two school years, or about September, 1953," Mr. Torrance said.

In the meantime the board will go ahead with other parts of the school rehabilitation program as fast as possible. First on the agenda will be building of a lunchroom at Edison, addition of a physical education and assembly room at North State Street and building of additional elementary classrooms where needed, he said.

"Until the new senior high school is completed we'll have to take whatever makeshift steps are necessary to continue holding high school classes at Harding. Until the new high school is built and in use, Harding can not be converted to a junior high. Vernon cannot be converted to an elementary school and Forest Lawn and Greenwood cannot be torn down. With completion of the new senior high school, all of these plans will proceed as quickly as possible." Mr. Torrance said.

Hospital Deficit Discussed By Council Finance Committee

The finance committee of city council met Monday night at city hall to discuss the deficit of the Marion City Hospital and ways and means of collecting hospital bills that are due.

Reports prepared by City Auditor Elmer Shaw and Hospital Administrator James Mautz were presented to the committee.

Mr. Shaw reported that during the first four months of 1951 expenses at the hospital amounted to $185,529 while receipts amounted to $164,956. This gave the hospital a loss during that period of $20,573.

On a breakdown of expenses, Mr. Shaw's report showed the payroll for the first four months of 1951 amounted to $107,802 while for the same period in 1950 the payroll amounted to $95,457.

Medical Expenses

Operating room and medical expenses during the same period increased from $28,601 in 1950 to $35,859 in 1951.

The food bill increased from $15,845 in 1950 to $17,544 in 1951 during the same four-month period.

Mr. Mautz reported an increase in the total number of patient days during the same period. He said there were a total of 13,561 patient days in the first four months of this year while there were only 12,716 patient days in the same period last year. The total income also increased from $149,834 in 1950 to $164,956 in 1951.

Whitney Denies Home Leased by MacArthur

NEW YORK, May 9—(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's interest in Connecticut dogwood has led to a lot of speculation.

Is the five-star general house hunting?

Or is he thinking about business?

Those were the questions asked today after MacArthur and his wife made an unannounced trip yesterday to Connecticut.

His aide, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, said MacArthur had read about the state's spring dogwood and decided to "inspect it."

Whitney said there is "no truth to it at all" of a report that MacArthur had leased a 20-room mansion and estate on Contentment Island, off Darien, Conn.

New York newspaper reports today said MacArthur saw the dogwood on the Darien estate of James Rand, of Remington Rand, Inc.

DEWEY TO SPEAK

WASHINGTON, May 9—(AP)—Members of the House and Senate join today with residents of Lititz, Pa., in observing the 90th birthday of the commercial pretzel. Senators Quiz Marshall that specifically, senator, because I think there were consultations with individuals sent out by the State Department, but they can answer that directly."

Marshall said he had no directive from the President to consult with MacArthur about his China mission.

On Stand 3 Hours

Marshall testified for more than three hours yesterday, his second appearance before the groups. The hearing was closed to the public but a transcript made public after censors' deletions showed he said:

1. A negotiated peace may be obtainable in Korea if American arms continue to chew up Red China's armies, with relatively low U. S. losses.

2. There is a "very real possibility" the Soviets will decide to intervene and thus touch off World War III.

3. There is the possibility that Red China itself will decide to enlarge the war, throwing in a formidable air force built up with Russian help.

4. There is "no choice" in Europe, where Marshall said the free world either must risk all-out war or "surrender," but there is a choice of limiting the measures and reducing the risk of all-out war in Asia.

5. "Accentuation" by MacArthur of U. S. casualties in Korea, combined with his contention that the war there is headed for a "bloody stalemate," threatens the morale of the troops.

Marshall said use of the Chinese Nationalist forces from Formosa "would have prejudiced the campaign because of the small result we would get from incursions of that force on the mainland and the hazards we would take in reducing the effective froce of those troops that are equipped" to defend Formosa from attack.

"Almost Academic"

He said the naval blockade of China suggested by MacArthur will become "almost academic" if Great Britain and other nations go along on an international embargo against China.

He told the senators the administration's policy is to "curb Communist aggression and, if possible, to avoid another world war in doing so," adding:

"There can be, I think, no quick and decisive solution to this global struggle short of resorting to another world war."

Marshall declared there is "a very real possibility" that the Soviets will decide to intervene in the Korean war in any event.

"Like all other matters pertaining to the Soviet Government, the decision is of a few men and can be an instant decision when they choose to make it," he said.

Noting that the Russians had been furnishing planes to China for an air buildup which has been going on for months, Marshall said that "the issue is immediately created as to whether or not the Soviets will stand by and see this crushed."

Can Expect Attacks

If the Soviets intervene, Marshall said the United States can expect air attacks on Japan and Okinawa. At another point, he said he had felt concern— evidently before the Korean war started—at a possibility of para-troop landings in Alaska.

Asked if the Allies have enough strength to keep Russia from overrunning Europe, Marshall replied they don't have at the present time.

"But we have enough to start them to think before they leap and of course we have an atomic advantage that they are aware of," he added.

The secretary said he "assumes" the Soviets have the atomic bomb, but believes they will have difficulty in building up any stockpile.

He said, however, that the efficiency of Russian planes and weapons is increasing, in relation to American arms.

Marshall told senators MacArthur's March 20 letter to Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, Republican leader of the House, brought the issue of the five-star general's dismissal to a head.

He said earlier MacArthur's statements figured in a "cumulative" way, but that until the Martin letter he was "quite certain there was no discussion to the effect that General MacArthur might be relieved."

Reading MacArthur's letter to Martin, Marshall said that the letter "involves foreign policy, involved the reactions of all of our Allies in Western Europe and involved our dealings with our Allies, and the question of what voice spoke from this country in the matter of foreign policy."

Senator Wiley (R-Wis) said he thinks "you have definitely stated the issue."

In his letter to Martin, MacArthur said that "here we fight Europe's war with arms while diplomats there still fight it with words."

Endorsing Martin's proposal for use of Chinese Nationalist troops, MacArthur said that "if we lose the war to communism in Asia, the fall of Europe is inevitable."

Marshall said MacArthur had violated earlier a directive of Dec. 6 that policy statements must be cleared with the State and Defense Departments here in Washington.

Wiley asked Marshall whether, before the Martin letter, the President had "ever called or been consulted with by you people as to the advisability of removing General MacArthur?"

"There was no meeting—until this letter," Marshall began. Then he added:

"I am quite certain there was no discussion to the effect that General MacArthur might be relieved in connection with the drafting of the order from the chief executive of Dec. 6.

"The matter came to a head with this letter we have just been reading. I might say, senator, that every time there is an indication of a difference, an important difference or an important attitude, you do not necessarily call the individual to account.

"It is cumulative, and it was decidedly so in this particular instance."

Wiley had brought out that three previous statements by MacArthur, made after the Dec. 6, directive, had drawn no rebukes from Washington.

One was MacArthur's statement in a Dec. 26 communique that "political intelligence" had "failed to penetrate the Iron Curtain and provided no substantial information of (the enemy's) intent" prior to the Chinese big offensive of last November.

The communique also said his field intelligence was handicapped by "the severest limitations," and protested that "no intelligence in the world could have surmounted such handicaps" as the orders not to fly beyond the Manchurian border.

Second Instance

The second was a statement made Feb. 13 at Tokyo after a visit to Korea. MacArthur said then his command was "doing everything that could reasonably be expected of it" until international decisions were made on how the campaign was to be fought.

The third was a March 7 statement, made at a news conference at Suwon, Korea. It included a declaration that "limitations upon our field of counter offensive action means the Korean War can not fail to end in a stalemate." The statement followed a conference with General Matthew B. Ridgway, then commanding the Eighth Army in Korea.

Under questioning by Wiley, Marshal said that none of these utterances had been either "approved or disapproved" officially by Washington leaders.

Today's hearing, as have been the others, was held behind closed doors. A stenographic report of what is said is sent to news reporters. Military and State Department censors first go over it and cut out anything they think would be harmful to the national interest if made public.

"Very Dull"

Senator Fulbright (D-Ark) left the committee room an hour after the session began and said "it's very dull."

He said Senator Wiley was making "a long legalistic argument" in questions to Marshall.

Fulbright said Wiley pointed out that MacArthur had made several statements which apparently were ignored in Washington but that President Truman fired the general when he wrote to Rep. Martin (Mass), the House Republican leader.

The letter, which Martin brought into House debate, endorsed Martin's view that Chinese Nationalist troops on Formosa, island where they took refuge when the Communists drove them from the mainland, should be loosed against the "common enemy."

Administration policy has been against so using those troops.

Fulbright predicted the questioning of Marshall would last at least two days longer and possibly five. He said the Republicans "are working together" in cross-examination. Senator Knowland (R-Calif) alone apparently has enough questions to take up a full session, Fulbright said.

Wants Clearer Answer

Before today's session, Knowland told reporters he wants a "clearer answer" from Marshall as to how the administration expects to end the Korean War.

Marshall testified yesterday that he expects eventual victory will be won by inflicting "terrific casualties" on the Chinese Communists, destroying their trained armies and breaking their morale.

The Defense Secretary indicated he thought this would bring the Chinese Reds to the point where they would be willing to negotiate a satisfactory settlement.

MacArthur, who testified for three days last week, contended the administration plan gave promise of nothing but a "bloody stalemate."

He has urged an economic and naval blockade of China, bombing of Chinese bases and supply lines which support the Communists in Korea, and use of Chiang's troops.

That program, MacArthur declared, would defeat the Chinese and bring an early end to the fighting.

Against that, Marshall argued the risks were too great — that Russia might come in on the Chinese side and the world be precipitated into a global atomic war.

21 New York Cops Indicted

Allegedly Conspired To Protect Bookies

NEW YORK, May 9—(AP)—Twenty-one policemen, including two inspectors, one captain and two lieutenants who have retired, were booked today on an indictment charging conspiracy to protect a $20,000,000 a year bookmaking racket.

The retired inspectors were named by the district attorney's office as Frederick Hofsaes of Brooklyn, who retired Oct. 6, 1950, and John F. Flynn, at one time head of former police commissioner William P. O'Brien's confidential squad.

Hofsaes retired under fire after his explanation of a gift of a television set, allegedly from the head of a bookmaking syndicate, was challenged by the district attorney.

The captain named was Joseph Workman of Brooklyn, and the lieutenants, both retired, were John F. X. Shaughnessy, of Brooklyn, and George Hanold, of Jamaica, Queens.

The indictment was handed up yesterday by a Brooklyn grand jury investigating various rackets and police corruption. The conspiracy charges cover the Harry Gross phase of the investigation.

Gross, who did a $20,000,000 bookmaking business, has told of paying $1,000,000 a year in graft for police protection. His syndicate was broken last September.

Gross now free on $25,000 bail, has pleaded guilty to 65 counts of bookmaking and one of conspiracy. He is to be sentenced May 21.

Moran

The jury deliberated only one hour and 35 minutes.

Moran remained free in $25,000 bail pending sentencing.

The defendant, a former first deputy fire commissioner, was convicted of perjury for testifying before the Senate probers that Weber had visited him in his fire department office no more than six times between 1946 and 1950.

Prosecution witnesses told of at least 111 visits. Government counsel charged that Moran lied, and took the chance of a perjury trial, rather than leave the way open for further Kefauver committee questions that would have exposed his relationship with Weber.

Moran was cited 38 times in last week's report by the Senate committee, which also criticized O'Dwyer.

Moran got his fire department job from O'Dwyer, his long-time pal and Democratic associate. And shortly before leaving city hall last fall to become Ambassador to Mexico, O'Dwyer handed him an even juicier political plum—a post as water supply commissioner which was supposed to last for life. But Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri forced Moran to resign after the Kefauver testimony.

EXPLOSION INVESTIGATED

Homes in the Vernon Heights section of Marion were rocked by an explosion last night at 10 p.m. The explosion was reported to the city police department who in turn called the Marion County sheriff. The explosion was reported at the southeastern edge of the city just outside the city limits. No damage resulted and no injuries were reported. Sheriff's deputies are investigating.

Schoolboy's Find May Reveal Ohio's First White Visitor

CHILLICOTHE, May 9—(AP)—A schoolboy had Ohio historians in a new stew over an old question today: Who was the first white visitor to Ohio?

The schoolboy is 16-year-old Pearl M. Sanford, a high school sophomore. And, if tentative belief is correct, Pearl has turned up this area's historical find of the century.

While Pearl was skipping stones across the Scioto River April 29, he saw a small, tablet-shaped piece of sandstone. It looked like good material for stone-skipping.

On it was inscribed: "Colonice Francoises 1699 P. Le Moyne Sr. D-Ibyle" Below were "L.P." and "P.L."

Is this a tablet inscribed by Pierre Le Moyne, Sieur D-Iberville, called the first great Canadian and the founder of a Louisiana settlement near Biloxi in the 1600s?

Local historians believe it is.

Iberville, as he is known in history, made two trips to Louisiana. History doesn't record the route of his second trip. In Chillicothe, some are speculating that perhaps Iberville came down the St. Lawrence River, down the Scioto River to the Ohio and then down the Mississippi.

Armed Forces Week To Be Observed May 14-19

Plans are being completed for the observance of Armed Forces Week in Marion

Captain John Spain of the Marion office of the Organized Reserve Corps said the observance will begin Monday and run through Saturday, May 19.

Mayor Harold F Robinson has signed a proclamation officially designating May 19 as Armed Forces Day. He called for Marion citizens to display the flag on that day in honor of men and women in the Armed Forces.

Highlighting the week-long observance will be a dinner at Hotel Harding on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. sponsored by The Armed Forces Day committee. Captain Spain said an invitation had been extended to Brig. General William K. Nayler, assistant division commander of the 43rd Infantry Division at Camp Pickett, Va., to be guest speaker.

Public Invited

Members of civic and military organizations have been invited to attend the dinner and the general public also may attend, Capt. Spain said. Reservations are being received at the O.R.C. office at 116 North State street.

Displays of service equipment will be placed in local store display windows during the week and some larger equipment may be placed in the streets.

Unscheduled events include flights of various type of military aircraft over the city. Several short movies on military subjects will be made available to local theaters during the week.

The Marion Engineer Depot will hold an "open house" program May 19. The installation will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with conducted tours set during those hours. Persons taking part in the tours will be given explanations of the various operations at the Depot.

Copeland Is Chairman

The local Organized Reserved Corps office is handling administrative affairs for the observance. Col. R. A. Copeland is chairman of the observance. Capt. Spain is Armed Forces Day project officer and assistant chairman.

Other persons aiding in arrangements for the observance are: Maj. Donald Cuthbert and Capt. Virgil Dye, Reserves, Maj. John H. Bagley, of the Depot, Maj. Ferns Pratt and First Lt. Melvin Weston, Reserves, First Lt. Millard K. Moreland of the Ohio National Guard, Maj. R. A. Bagley and Lt. David Pollak, Reserves, Sgt. Darwin A. Lillie of the Army Recruiting Station, Sgt. Richard A. Sebenoler of the O.R.C. office, and Robert T. Mason.

An Armed Forces Day Dance will be held Thursday, May 17 by the 164th Fighter Squadron of the Ohio Air National Guard at Mansfield Municipal Airport. Gene Krupa and his orchestra will play for the dance to be held in the squadron hangar.

The dance is open to the public and tickets may be obtained at the local O.R.C. office. More than 1,600 persons attended the last dance sponsored by the group at the hangar.

MARY ASTOR

Sleeping Pills Put Second Hollywood Figure in Hospital

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., May 9—(AP)—A dancer who accompanied Actress Mary Astor's husband on a tour of nightclubs Monday night when Miss Astor took an overdose of sleeping pills is herself in a hospital this morning. Police said the dancer also had taken an overdose of a sleeping potion.

The woman was identified by Police Detective Sgt. Joe Gebhardt as Joan Blair Casparis, 33. The detective said her escort Monday night was broker Thomas Wheelock, husband of Miss Astor.

An attending physician reported today that Miss Casperis is in a serious condition but expected to recover. She was still unconscious several hours after being taken to California Lutheran Hospital in Los Angeles.

Miss Astor, who took sleeping pills after a period of despondency, was reported as out of danger after treatment.

Police said Miss Casparis was found unconscious last night after Wheelcok had tried unsuccessfully to rouse her by telephone in her room at the Bevely Hills Hotel.

Others taking part in the service were Lorene Brooks, Marjorie Lucas, Ruth Ella Linn, Charles Foos and John Lucas.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

A smile of ineffable sweetness in the natural order of things, I curved my father's lips as he shall see that smile no more. heard my assurance and Dicky's "You have given me great han- concerning Faith, and again I piness, my daughter, and my felt the haunting fear which as son," he said. Then he brought always with me, that all too soon, himself back to "the order of the day," with decision.

"I sent Olsen away when I went down to the other room with Faith," he said "Will I have time for consultation with him before that luncheon is sent up""

I looked at my wrist watch, and made a mental computation.

"How much time do you wish?" I asked.

"Twenty minutes."

"That will just about fit," I said, "and, to make sure, I will tell room service to send up the luncheon exactly a half hour from now."

"That will be fine," he commented. "Now, where can I see Olsen, so as to be safely out of this room?"

"In my bedroom," Dicky answered promptly. "Don't you agree, Madge?"

"It is the only possible place" I said, "and—it is all in readiness."

"Then I will go down there now," he decided promptly. "Richard, will you telephone Olsen, and ask him to come up here as quickly as he can?"

"Sure thing," Dicky said, loping to the telephone, and with a "thank you," to Dicky, and his always courteous. "If you will excuse me, please," to me, my father went out of the room, and down the hall to Dicky's bedroom.

I saw the four boys exchange admiring glances, and heard the low query which Hank put to the others.

"Isn't he something"" he asked, with reverential awe in his voice.

Dicky turned from the telephone with a brief announcement:

"Olsen will be here in five minutes," he said, and I walked toward the telephone.

"I'll try to get this luncheon menu telephoned before Mr. Olsen gets here," I said, "but if I don't just take him down to Father."

"Fat chance you have of getting all our orders telephoned in five minutes so they can understand them," Roderick said, and there was a note of anxiety in his voice which made the other boys give a shout of raucous laughter.

"Afraid the right directions wouldn't go in for your curried shrimps?" Junior gibed, and Roderick grinned sheepishly.

"Okay, okay," he said, "but you're all wishing Aunt Madge wouldn't hurry her instructions."

"I won't," I told them placidly, "but, please don't talk while I'm telephoning."

"We'll be little neck clams," Bill said, and they all kept the promise, until I had hung up the receiver, and turned back to them.

"That sounds as if nobody would go hungry, anyway," Bill commented.

"I hope you have plenty of bicarbonate of soda on hand, Madge," my husband gibed banally, and his son rose to the occasion.

"Dad!" he said reproachfully "Your brilliant brain ought to give out something better than that. I hear that on television almost every time I look."

"Why, you disrespectful young pup!" Dicky roared in mock anger, diving for his son. "I'll flay you alive! I'll tear you limb from limb! Hey, get to that door somebody!" and the four boys were too helpless from laughter to move as Mr. Olsen's expected knock sounded on the door.

Birthmark Can Occur Internally

It is not commonly known that hemangiomas. By far the most the same overgrowth of blood common type of tumor occurring vessels which accounts for the in newborn babies, they are either ordinary "birthmark" when it ap- apparent at birth or show up soon pears on the skin can also occur thereafter.

in other parts of the body. Medically, such growths are considered as tumors and are known as

They may vary in size from a tiny spot to those which cover almost half of the body. As I said earlier, they are sometimes found internally, but the great majority, however, occur on the skin and in tissues near the skin, the favorite location being on the skin of the head and neck. Less commonly they are found around the eye, in the brain, on the tongue, in the intestinal tract, or in the liver. There is an indication that girls have the condition twice as often as boys.

Just what treatment should be used depends not only on the size of the tumor but also on its location. Obviously, if the hemangioma is located in the brain, or in any of the intestinal organs, operative treatment will be necessary.

One type of these tumors is known as a portwine stain. These are large purplish growths which are usually flat. It has been suggested that in some cases these markings may be made less noticeable by rubbing with sandpaper. Of course, this must be carried out in a hospital. The camouflaging of these marks is often possible with various cosmetics, and sometimes they can be permanently camouflaged by tattooing. Small hemangiomas on the surface of the skin may be frozen with dry ice. Larger ones are sometimes treated by injecting sclerosing solutions into them, or by tying off blood vessels. Many of them, however, require surgical removal, the best and quickest method where the tumor is well sealed off from surrounding tissue.

The treatment of any hemangioma with X-ray should be carried out with the greatest of caution, particularly if the growth is near the breast bone, spinal column, on the scalp, breast, or eye, On the other hand, a hemangioma of the tongue or liver may best be treated by X-ray or radium.

In each instance, the growth must be carefully studied to determine its type and the selection of treatment, on the basis of the method which will most quickly and safely eliminate it.

STEALS THEN PLANTS TREE

BUCYRUS—Leo Gallant of near Bucyrus, pleaded guilty to the theft of an evergreen tree from the farm of Roy McKeen of near Tiro, at his arraignment here Monday before Justice of Peace Robert L. Brown and was fined $25 and costs. Through an agreement with McKeen, the fine was suspended, Sheriff Ralph Schreck reported. Gallant was arrested by sheriff's deputies after the license number of his auto was taken at the time of the theft. The tree was found planted in Gallant's front yard, Sheriff Schreck said.

SCOFFS AT FAT MAN. We were driving by Mar-O-Del Golf course, my friend of college days and I, when he looked out at the parade of golfers on the No. 1 hole and remarked, "Look at that fat man trying to keep his weight down by chasing a little white ball all over the countryside. Silly as he—!"

"I see if you don't care for golf," I said by way of adding to the conversation.

"Oh, I have been known to drop a few strokes from my total with the best of them," he said, "but these guys who have stump jobs in offices and then expect to take off their lard on the links is what stumps me."

DOUBTING THOMAS. Opening the car vent to circulate some of the hot air on the inside, I stopped for a red light and said, "you really should try golf and say you can't enjoy golf if you're overweight—I never heard of such silly reasoning!"

"Don't get excited," my friend grinned, "or I may get clooney about whose car I ride in. I'm merely stating that the average man forgets his calories backs up to the mirror to see where he has added about two axe handles across the beam, but hurries out to buy a set of golf clubs.

"Now a much easier way to sweat off the suet is to follow the Mayo Clinic diet or go for long walks. It's much easier on the heart and an easier way to get rid of those extra axe handles."

NO FUN, SON. I disagreed. "But then you would not be enjoying yourself by competing in a game which would be simply an ordeal I believe in the theory of fun in the sun' while losing weight. Stendel, Tarys Standouts For Yoter's Crew

Special to The Star

LIMA, O., May 9—Southpaw Dick Tarys and first baseman, Marv Stendel, combined their efforts to help the Red Sox roll over Lima, 10-4, at Phillies' Park last night.

Tarys scattered eight hits in the first game of Marion's two-day stand here. Stendel batted in five runs—the margin of victory—with two doubles and a single.

The Red Sox scored first blood in the initial frame when Jim Evanik got on base on an error and then scored on the first Stendel two-bagger.

Went Ahead

Lima tied it up in their half and went ahead with two more runs in the second frame. Marion came back in the third with two tallies on a triple by Evanik and singles by Tarys and Stendel.

In the fourth frame, the Red Sox scored four times, despite the efforts of three Lima hurlers. Tarys helped his own cause with a slashing single, which sent home Phil Rinzi, who got on base on a Lima miscue, and Ed Sadowski, who slammed the first of his four safeties. Tarys and Evanik then scored on four straight walks given up by Phil Pitcher Jack McCulloch.

Two More

Marion garnered two more runs in the seventh on hits by Sadowski and Stendel. In the ninth inning, Dick Brodowski singled and scored on a wild pitch.

Two double plays also helped the Red Sox when the Phillies threatened in the fourth and eighth innings. Tom Tate and Rolly Hammett led the Lima attack with two hits each.

Boxer Takes On Manager After Winning Decision

HIBBING, Minn., May 9—(AP)—Glen Flanagan of St. Paul drew an on-the-spot 60-day ring suspension in Minnesota last night when he socked his opponent's manager after winning a 10-round boxing decision over Pat Iacobucci of Cincinnati.

Flanagan, weighing 128 pounds, had just been announced as a 98-95 point winner over the 127-pound Olivian when he strode across the ring and without warning struck out at Ed Johnson the loser's pilot. There was a flurry of punches before officials and spectators parted the pair.

After the flareup, Flanagan told newsmen he struck out at Johnson because "he had been riding me all through the fight."

Players Only Pawns for Mahatma

Rickey's Slick Maneuverings Keep Lightly Rated Bucs in 3rd Place

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Branch Rickey's manipulations with the Pittsburgh Pirates makes that old "who's on first, what's on second" gags as outmoded as a day game in St. Louis.

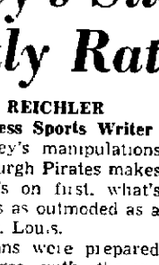
Pittsburgh fans were prepared for some changes with the announcement last winter that Rickey had been lured from Brooklyn to take over the reins of the Buccaneers.

But who would have been so clairvoyant as to foresee that Ralph Kiner, the home run hitting outfielder, would be playing first base this year? Or that Pete Reiser, who did some infielding and outfielding in his day, would be classed as a catcher? Or that they'd live to see their club experiment with a lefthanded receiver?

Sends 'em Reeling

Just when the bewildered faithful get used to these sudden switches lo and behold, Rickey really sends them reeling.

More than one reader of the sports pages must have wondered what's up when he saw the Pittsburgh box score for Tuesday's game. It shows a left fielder at first, a centerfielder at third, a shortstop at second and a third basemen at short. If the reader is befuddled, how must those perplexed Pittsburgh pawns feel?



Branch Rickey

There is a method to Rickey's madness as there is to everything this celebrated brainbuster does. The craggy, bushy-browed Mahatma's daily shifts have been more confusing than amusing to the opposition.

Ask those pennant hungry Dodgers. Or the contending Boston Braves. Or the defending Philadelphia Phillies. All experienced a taste of the Rickey switch and look what happened. The Pirates swept both games at Ebbets Field. They split a pair in Boston but had the satisfaction of slapping a no-hitter on the hard-hitting Braves. Last night, they drubbed the Phils under the Philadelphia lights, 9-3.

It took the Phils eight innings before they finally scored off Mel Queen. It probably took them that long to get over their surprise at seeing the Pirates take the field with centerfielder Wally Westlake at third, third baseman Pete Castiglione at short and shortstop George Strickland at second. Kiner, of course, was at first. That made a completely revamped infield.

One Error

The Pirates, consigned to the cellar again, currently are clinging to third place, ahead of Brooklyn and Philadelphia, with a 10-8 won and lost record.

The Braves moved into first place with a 2-1 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds under the Boston lights. A home run by Sid Gordon in the last half of the ninth ended a pitching duel between winner Max Surkont and Herman Wehmeier.

The Giants finally moved out of the cellar to make room for Cincinnati by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-2, at night in New York. Larry Jansen pitched a four-hitter for his first victory since opening day.

Eight members of the Cardinals were left at the hotel sick with flu.

Hank Sauer's home run with a mate aboard in the first inning gave the Chicago Cubs a 2-1 triumph over the Dodgers. Bob Schultz, rookie southpaw, spaced nine hits for his third victory.

A single by Vic Wertz in the 11th inning drove in Jerry Priddy with the run that gave the Tigers a 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees in a day affair at Detroit.

Ray Herbert, in relief, gained credit for his fourth victory.

Bobby Shantz pitched the Philadelphia Athletics to a 9-4 win over the White Sox in Chicago.

Cleveland, Washington, the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns were not scheduled.

FAMED GOLFER DIES

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, May 9—(AP)—Leo Diegel, who won many of golf's top honors, died at his home last night after a lingering illness at the age of 52. Diegel, who used an unorthodox, arms-akimbo putting stance, was P. G. A. champ in 1928 and 1929. He represented the United States on the Ryder Cup team from 1927 through 1933, finished second in the British Open in 1920 and third in 1929 and was third in the U. S. Open in 1931.

Lemon vs. Lopat

Easter Ready for Series Opener Against Yankees

CLEVELAND, May 9—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians will try to get their big first baseman, Luke Easter, back into action tonight in an effort to beat back the invading New York Yankees.

The front-running Yanks now are one and a half games ahead of the third-place Tribesmen. A clean sweep of the two-game series might put Cleveland on top, depending on what second-place Washington does.

Easter, who strained his left knee in St. Louis a week and a half ago, took batting practice yesterday for the first time since he was hurt. He said the knee gave him no trouble.

Wait and See

"We'll wait and see how he feels tonight," Manager Al Lopez said. "I don't think there's much chance he will be able to start, but I think he can pinch hit if we need him."

Easter is needed badly in the lineup. He was batting .423 and the Tribe had won seven out of eight games and was in first place when he was sidelined. Since then, the Indians have won only four of the nine games they have played.

Dr. Don Kelly, team physician, has warned the big fellow, however, against returning too soon. He said another injury on top of the old one might put him out for an indefinite period.

Bob Feller, the other injured Tribesman, scalded his legs and lower torso yesterday when he lost control of a water hose while preparing to take a whirlpool bath.

Optimistic

The burns were diagnosed as first and second degree, but Feller said he hoped to recover in time to pitch in Chicago over the weekend. He already was suffering from muscle spasms of the right side and a strain of the sacroiliac region.

"If anything, the back will keep me out longer than the burns," he told reporters. "Anyway, I expect to be pitching batting practice tonight.

Bob Lemon, with a 3-1 record, will start for the Indians tonight, opposing the veteran Eddie Lopat, currently one of the hottest pitchers in baseball. Lopat has won four without a single defeat and has permitted two runs in 36 innings this year.

And if that doesn't mean enough trouble for the Tribesmen, they can take a look at Lopat's lifetime record against them. It shows 28 victories against only six losses.

Early Wynn probably will face Vic Raschi in the concluding game of the series tomorrow afternoon.

New Jersey has voted Democratic in all but four presidential elections since 1872.

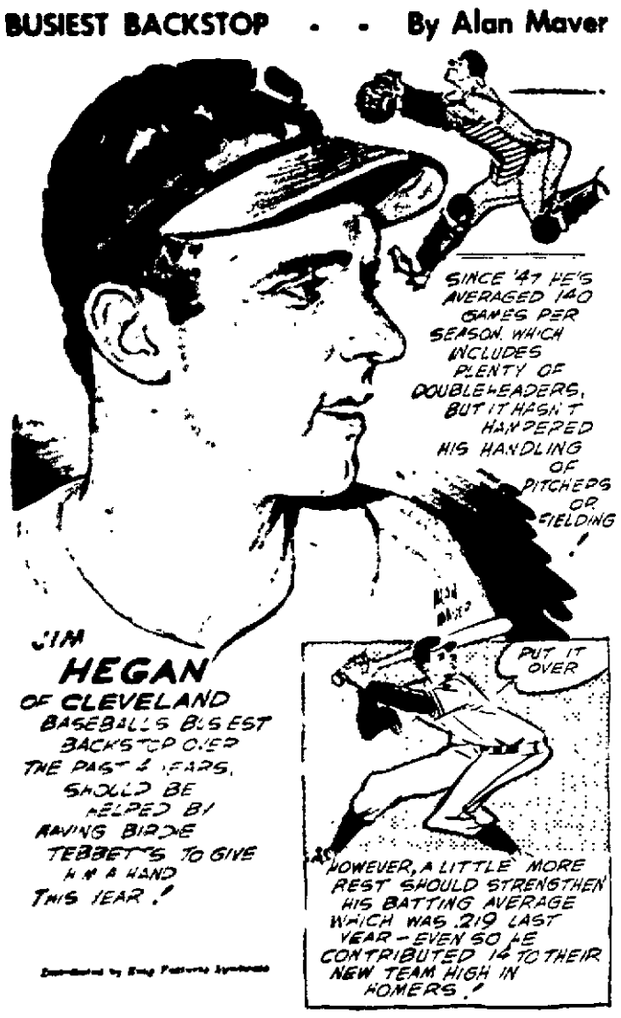
BUSIEST BACKSTOP - - By Alan Maver



SINCE '47 HE'S AVERAGED 140 GAMES PER SEASON, WHICH INCLUDES PLENTY OF DOUBLEHEADERS, BUT IT HASN'T HAMPERED HIS HANDLING OF PITCHERS OR FIELDING
PUT IT OVER
HOWEVER, A LITTLE MORE REST SHOULD STRENGTHEN HIS BATTING AVERAGE WHICH WAS .219 LAST YEAR - EVEN SO HE CONTRIBUTED 14 TO THEIR NEW TEAM HIGH IN HOMERS.
JIM HEGAN OF CLEVELAND BASEBALL'S BUSIEST BACKSTOP OVER THE PAST 4 YEARS, SHOULD BE HELPED BY HAVING BIRDIE TEBBETT'S TO GIVE HIM A HAND THIS YEAR.

G.I.'s Upset Smitty's; Wilson's, Star, Bird-McGinnis Win 1st

G I Post scored the biggest upset in the strong Commercial League last night by surprising Smitty's All-Stars, city champions of last season, 10-4.

In other games The Marion Star went nine innings before shoving across a run to down Waldo, 4-3; Bird-McGinnis got past Carl's Auto Parts, 6-4, and Wilson's Recreation won easily over K and W. 11-1.

Smitty's Bud England and Jimmy Kankle of the G.I's hooked up into a duel for four innings before the winners pushed across eight runs in the fifth and sixth. The losers rallied for three runs in the top of the seventh when Max Roseberry slammed a homer with two on, but the rally fell short.

The Star led Waldo by one run going into the final inning, but a single run tied the count. In the bottom of the ninth, Bob McKeever, Star hurler, opened with a walk, went to second while the pitcher held the ball and came flying home on Leftfielder Dick Gunder's clean drive into left Dwight Wilcox limited Carl's to five hits in winning for Bird-McGinnis. The winners scored four big runs in the third inning on four hits, including a two-run double by Spain and two walks.

A seven-run outburst by Wilson's in the first inning proved enough for its victory over K. and W.

High Marks Listed In A.B.C. Tourney

ST. PAUL, May 9—(AP)—The 1951 A B C. continues to follow the pattern as one of the scoring-est pin toppling events in recent years.

In yesterday's shooting, a pair of Moline, Ill., keglers shot into second place in the doubles; a New Yorker hit 685 in the singles, and a Philadelphia booster team took over fifth place in that division.

Gerry Anderson, 31-year-old advertising salesman and son of the man who won the A B. C singles in 1938 with a 746 series, paired with Penny Spaulding for a 1,320 doubles count. Anderson hit games of 236, 248 and 201 for a 685 series Spaulding, a 26-year-old bartender, dumped the pins for a 635 series on games of 215, 188 and 232

Sid Baum of New York got a 279 start in his singles and followed with a 221 for an even 500 for his first two games but he dropped to 185 in his third try and failed to place among the leaders.

The Philadelphia Naval Shipyards No. 1 team shot a 2,801 to gain fifth place in the booster division.

Greene explained, however, that any action taken on Williams must be approved by the executive committee of the N.B.A.

Brewers Keep Lead in A.A.

By The Associated Press

The home run appears to be Milwaukee's mightiest weapon in maintaining its lead in the American Association pennant race.

The Brewers relied on a circuit clout to win their fourth straight game by nudging the Toledo Mud Hens 4-3 last night. In each victory, a home run was the clincher.

Second-place Kansas City tallied three times in the eighth for a 6-5 win over Columbus. Pitcher Bob Wiesler lit the fuse with a double and eventually scored the winning run on Bob Marquis' blooper. The Blues remained 1½ games off the pace.

Minneapolis took its second straight verdict from Louisville, 11-5

Indianapolis collected only four hits but two of them were two-run homers, to down St. Paul, 7-4

High Court Lets Stand Decision Against Marionite

The Ohio Supreme Court today refused to disturb lower court decisions in a damage suit action against Emmett Young of 674 Windsor street, operator of a garage on North Main street.

The suit was filed by George Weisant of Marion after he was injured in a collision with a garage truck owned by Young on April 16, 1947. The collision occurred on Delaware avenue. Mr. Weisant sued for damages and a Common Pleas Court jury here returned a verdict for $14,677 in his favor.

The verdict was appealed to the Third District Court of Appeals and was upheld by the three-judge panel. Young's attorneys then filed a motion to have the case certified to the Ohio Supreme Court. The high court overruled the motion and will not hear the appeal.

Mr. Weisant was represented by the Moore and Myers law firm. Moloney and Kelly represented Mr. Young.

Film Capital Honors Stars Of Silent Era

HOLLYWOOD May 9—(AP)—The film capital dipped into the past last night with a movie premiere to salute the stars of the silent era.

Hollywood which is noted for its bad memory, did an about face by honoring the faded film personalities. "For the pleasure you have brought to millions the world over." The event, backed by the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, had all the trappings of a glamor premiere.

Guests were the magic personalities of another era. Francis X. Bushman, heartbeat of the silent era and now a radio actor, looked dashing as he escorted starlet Piper Laurie. His onetime co-star, Betty Blythe, also in radio now, looked younger than her years.

Elmo Lincoln, present day bit player, was as strapping as the days he played the screen's first Tarzan. Juna Faye, longtime Cecil B. DeMille star, and still a player in films ran down the aisle for her citation.

Comics Hank Mann and Chester and Heine Conklin, also sped for their awards. Their one time boss, Mack Sennett, was also one of the honored guests.

Among the other old timers, William Farnum, Pauline Garon, Helen Gibson, Eddie Polo and Herbert Rawlinson also are more or less actors in motion pictures.

Each was presented with a citation for their help "In making Hollywood the film capital of the world." They were handed out by Jack Benny, who still admitted to being only 39.

The premiere was for a new film ("Hollywood Story") which closely resembles the story of William Desmond Taylor. The silent film director was the victim of an unsolved murder and a resulting scandal rocked Hollywood in the Twenties.

Hospital Board Makes $925 From Circus

The sum of about $925 was realized by members of the Junior Woman's Hospital Board when they sponsored the appearance of the Mills Bros. Circus in Marion last Saturday.

All the money received will be used by the Board in helping to carry on its work in the pediatrics ward at Marion City Hospital and in building up a fund with which to assist in furnishing various items for a like ward in the new hospital.

Approximately 3,000 persons attended the circus performances, with about 2,000 on hand in the afternoon and about half that many at the evening show.

For the benefit of underprivileged children, nearly 1,500 tickets were sponsored by local merchants, organizations and individuals. Children receiving these tickets attended the afternoon show. The children of the Marion County Children's Home attended and were given reserved seats.

Mrs. David Pollak served as general chairman of the project for the board.

REBEKAH LODGE MEETS

Loyal Circle, Wayside Rose, Rebekah Lodge 598 met Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mildred Rayner of 322 Latourette street. Contest awards were made to Mrs. Mabel Phelps and Mrs. Ida Sinden. The next meeting will be May 18 at the home of Mrs. O. C. Henney of Windsor street.

Yes, it's happened again! MILK BOTTLES are scarce and getting scarcer!

Chemicals used in making glass are needed for many other vital jobs. And more glass containers are being made, due to metal shortages. This adds up to fewer milk bottles being produced by the glass companies. So, we must put every one of our bottles on full-time duty!

We'd like you to return ALL MILK BOTTLES AT ONCE. Put them out for your Borden milkman, or return them to the store where you buy Borden's milk.
We're sure you'll cooperate . . . and believe us, we'll appreciate it.

Radio and Television

By FRED ALLEN

John Crosby is in Europe on vacation. In his absence his column will be written by friends.

Television is here to stay—and so is General MacArthur.

In the beginning, God worked six days and created the Earth. Today, 1 director, 1 scenic designer, 8 writers, 4 painters, 6 carpenters, 5 wardrobe women, 4 cameramen, 4 assistants, 2 floor managers, 8 chorus girls, 10 actors, 6 electricians, 18 stagehands and 20 musicians work six days and create a mediocre television show.

In Chicago, during 1950, a crime was committed every 12½ minutes.

(Criminals on TV crime shows claim they could have beaten this record if they didn't have to stop for commercials.)

* * *

The Western Union Telegraph Company has formed a subsidiary to install and service television receivers.

(If you come home some night and see a messenger boy on your roof—there is no reason to stop drinking.)

Fred Allen

* * *

The National Credit Office, Inc., reports that 70 percent of consumer purchases of television receivers are on an installment basis.

(The size of a TV actor's audience has nothing to do with his ability—it is determined by the Finance Company's collections.)

* * *

To cover the recent demonstration for General MacArthur the various networks had more than 500 technicians and $2,500,000 worth of TV equipment in the streets.

(Many radio actors wish the networks would leave them there.)

* * *

The Supreme Court will shortly rule on whether the CBS or RCA system will be used for color television.

(Meantime, both TV networks will operate in one color—red.)

* * *

According to a survey, conducted by a Northwestern University professor, teen-age youths are reading less because of television.

(In most American homes the 20-inch screen is replacing the five-foot shelf.)

* * *

(The minute a program is finished the viewer at home forms his opinion of the actors and their wares. The critic's pernicious monograph, appearing in the paper the following morning, is too late to serve a purpose. It is merely the obituary of a departed charade.)

* * *

Television is keeping so many baseball fans away from one minor league park that the teams are only playing with seven men.

(The other two players sit in the stands so there will be somebody to watch the games.)

* * *

(It's logical—the dog couldn't turn the set off—it did the next best thing.)

* * *

A special committee of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters reports it will attempt to raise necklines in television.

(Faye Emerson is sure going to look incognito in a turtle-neck evening gown.)

* * *

One columnist wonders why most TV directors have those short haircuts.

(TV directors wear crew cuts to keep the actors from getting in their hair.)

* * *

There are so many college men working in television any office door can be opened with a fraternity key.

* * *

(Television may be going places but the people who are looking at it aren't.)

* * *

One TV survey outfit has a new electro - mechanical system that eliminates calling viewers by phone.

(Today there are so many surveys calling set owners that the set owners are starting to call the surveys—and what they are calling them threatens to reach a new high in sulphurous invective. Some of the phrases contain so much sulphur if they are rubbed on a hard surface the words will give off a dull blue flame.)

* * *

In South Bend, a TV antenna fell across a 27,000-volt power line with some amazing results. Balls of fire bounced up and down on the roof with thunderous explosions; the telephone burned out; a glove lying in the yard burst into flames; the plumbing began throwing off sparks and pipes melted around the kitchen sink.

UHLER'S

Veterans and Draftees Guide — By Major Thomas M. Nial

[illegible] board, don't miss [illegible] 'appeal peri d' [illegible] SSS Form No. 110] [illegible] appeal [illegible] appeal board. Or [illegible] in person before your [illegible] he thinks it may [illegible] (3) write your [illegible] Selective Service director. [illegible] also are right to appeal [illegible] appear in person expires after that 10-day period.

Say Jack Smith, a worker on his Dad's farm, turns 19 and gets a draft questionnaire to fill out. He may not request an appearance before his board at that time. He must first return the questionnaire and let the board classify him. If he sets down all the facts on his job in the questionnaire and gets his father to attach a letter explaining why he's needed on the farm, the board probably will defer him without a hearing.

If it doesn't, then within ten days after his Notice of Classification card is mailed—not ten days after he gets it—he may file a written request that he appear in person before the board.

• • •

MUST THE BOARD allow him to appear? You bet your sweet life it must. It may have him appear within 24 hours or wait a week or longer, depending on when the board meets next. But Jack's induction will be suspended during that time. He can not be ordered up while his appearance is pending. So it doesn't matter how long the board takes to get around to him.

If Jack waits until after the "appeal period" to file his request, his board will not allow him to appear, unless he was unable to file it sooner 'because of circumstances over which he had no control."

If Jack just happens to be out of town and his classification card doesn't get to him or him to request a hearing, he's out of luck. Thats why he should keep the board advised where mail will always reach him directly.

Jack, however, gets his request in on time and the board tells him to appear in a week. His Dad could ask to appear with him to explain why he's needed at home, and the board could grant the request, but the regs say definitely that no one but the registrant has the "right" to appear in person.

• • •

JACK MAY NOT appear with a lawyer to represent him either. He must face the board members and speak for himself.

"At any such appearance," the regs say, "the registrant may discuss his classification, may point out the class or classes in which he thinks he should have been placed, and may direct attention to any information in his file which he believes the local board has overlooked or to which he believes it has not given sufficient weight."

He may give the board more info, written or oral. All such info will go into his file.

Then the board considers all the facts it has in Jack's record and classifies him, just as if he were being classified for the first time. It will mail him another Notice of Classification and, if it still does not defer him, he may then appeal within ten days after that classification card is mailed. He may Not ask for a second personal appearance, however.

An Honest Argument

GEN. MARSHALL declared in his opening statement before the Senate's questioners that Gen. MacArthur was by no means the first commander to question orders received from a remote command.

In thus acknowledging as typical a situation which many have asserted to be unique, the secretary of defense pointed out that there is nearly always a difference between the military viewpoints of local commanders and those by commanders in headquarters.

In other words, if their positions were transposed there would be the same clash of opinions: the friction is not personal but institutional.

It is an honest argument Gen. Marshall has been put on the defensive by the MacArthur incident. The whole Truman Administration has been put on the defensive. It knows it may lose the debate. Nevertheless, Gen. Marshall concedes at the outset of his own presentation that the argument is honest.

If only that were to be proved out by the testimony, something would have been accomplished. Americans would at last know what continues to be obscure after a bad century—that their powerful country has two oceans frontiers, not one. The Atlantic and the Pacific must be kept in balance.

A Modicum of Self-Denial

A GROUP of clubwomen in Cleveland will try an anti-inflation stunt so obvious it is commonplace to millions of Americans.

They will cut down on their families' intake of meat for one week (not for the same reason given by consumers who have had to go without meat through inability to pay the price. While it is likely that the Clevelanders themselves have been feeling the pinch of declining purchasing power, most of them still regard meatless meals as a privation. Otherwise there would be no novelty in their meatless week.

There is great merit in their idea. If it were adopted widely it would relieve the extreme pressure on the meat supply which has been put there by demand. The demand has been increased by an upturn in employment. It is outdistancing the supply of meat, hence the high price of that commodity. Nothing the government can do will change the picture. Consumers who want meat and have the wherewithal to buy meat will satisfy their desire either in the white market or the black market. They will bid against one another for the supply.

They will do that at the expense of other would-be consumers who lack the wherewithal to engage in competitive bidding. The Cleveland clubwomen are proposing that would-be consumers who possess the wherewithal should restrain themselves for one week only. This modicum of self-denial, if it is exercised, will demonstrate the untapped possibilities of that virtue in the anti-inflation "battle."

A Proper Job for the Assembly

IT IS impossible to understand why the Democratic minority in the Ohio General Assembly should oppose a continuous investigation of subversive influence, except on one ground.

That would be the mistaken idea of some labor unionists who are identified with the Democratic party that such an investigation would hurt the labor interests. The truth lies in the opposite direction.

The legitimate labor movement has everything to gain and nothing to lose by uprooting Communists wherever and whenever they can be found. The only unionists still trying to defend Commies are those who have decided that power-wage is the red star.

The Senate-House committee of the assembly which has been investigating subversion for the last two months has helped to bring the Communist menace in this state into the light, where it can be appraised. It has made a fair beginning.

A continuing investigation is a proper job for the General Assembly. The House committee on un-American activities of Congress has been a standing organization for many years. It has done invaluable work to be sure. Its work has been embarrassing to Communists and their friends. It has been denounced by Commie coddlers that is why it has value.

It Will Be Tough

All reports from the cattle-raising and feeding districts of the country indicate widespread opposition to the new control orders for beef issued by office of price stabilization.

The orders clamp a ceiling on prices of steers to prevent them from jumping in over the next month.

Packers and retailers who handle meat are in business to make money. They are not in favor of prospects of making money and will drive them out of business. Take away what little security exists in a hazardous enterprise and you make the hazard less worth risking.

The new control orders for beef have dimmed the prospect of making money. They have increased the hazard of being in the beef business at all. Hence, the unanimity of opposition by packers and feeders.

They will not risk bankruptcy merely to please an agency in Washington.

Marshall's Testimony

By David Lawrence

Presents Some Interesting Disclosures

WASHINGTON

SECRETARY MARSHALL'S testimony is in many respects even more sensational than that of General MacArthur.

For it tells the American people for the first time that they have completely lost their independence of military action in the midst of a war in which 350,000 American boys are engaged.

It tells that decisions made by the President, the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of State and the Joint Chiefs of Staff are vetoed in secret by other governments without an opportunity for the public opinion of the United States or of the world to be appraised of the facts.

LAWRENCE

It tells that, although the United States has contributed the bulk of the troops in Korea, the 13 governments which have contributed token forces decided to deny us the right to apply the military doctrine of pursuing the enemy—known as "hot pursuit."

It tells that the United Nations has appointed the United States as agent to conduct the military operations but that the agent can not perform those military operations without continuously obtaining the consent of these allies.

It tells that the United States, though conscious of the importance of an economic blockade to stop strategic materials and munitions from getting to the enemy, has not succeeded in persuading the principal U.N. countries now involved in that trade to stop it, even though 10 months of war in Korea have elapsed.

* * *

IT TELLS THAT all these troubles and friction between the United States and its allies were never communicated to General MacArthur except in the vaguest terms.

It tells, by implication, that the famous 13-nation declaration which was supposed to bring about a negotiation of a "cease fire" was never sent to General MacArthur and that only a brief message saying some such announcement was planned went to him on March 20 last.

It tells that the United States government at present opposes the entry of Red China out that the United States government is nevertheless willing to discuss these subjects as matters for negotiation with the Red Chinese when they agree to a "cease fire."

It tells that the United States will adhere to that policy but it doesn't tell whether the United States will use its veto to turn down such a reward for aggression or will merely bow to the will of the U.N. countries eventually, as it has done on some of the military measures proposed to the U.N.

It tells that General MacArthur carried out his military instructions as Far East commander and did not violate any military orders but that his public statements — his letter answering a member of Congress, Representative Martin, and his interviews answering questions that were asked by the press concerning military operations — were distasteful to the President and his advisers and really caused his dismissal.

* * *

IT TELLS THAT only four men sat in with President Truman and recommended summary dismissal of General MacArthur—Messrs. Acheson, Harriman, Bradley and Marshall.

It tells that the Joint Chiefs favored a replacement but did not have anything to do with the form of dismissal. It doesn't tell whether the Joint Chiefs were told that the President was displeased with MacArthur's statements and was considering a change in command.

It tells that the summary dismissal was decided upon suddenly as a means of preventing General MacArthur from making any further statements to the press and from developing a sort of "cumulative affair" of publicity. This has since come about anyway with probably more cumulative statements and hearings than anybody ever imagined.

It tells that the Secretary of Defense of the United States does not believe the enemy can be driven out of Korea but he hopes they will withdraw after their offensives fail. He doesn't think bombardment of Manchurian bases will chase them out, either, though he concedes that diversionary operations such as a blockade and other military efforts in southeast Asia may cause them to tire of their effort to stay in Korea.

It tells that in a moment of great crisis—when MacArthur's troops were being pushed back last December after Red China entered the war—the U.N. allies became frightened and began to limit the operations of the U.N. troops, especially in fighting back in the air.

* * *

IT TELLS THAT instructions went to General MacArthur forbidding him to bomb even two big distributing centers in North Korea which were 35 miles below the northern border of the country and well within Korea itself.

It tells that, despite General MacArthur's titles as supreme commander in Japan and U.N. commander and commander-in-chief of Far Eastern forces, Secretary Marshall regarded General MacArthur as just another "local theater commander," without the latitude of expression to comment on military events that Eisenhower had or Nimitz had or MacArthur himself had during the last war, and without even the right to engage in psychological warfare in his own theater of action because it might offend U. N. allies.

There are many things revealed, the significance of which will become apparent as the hearings continue. But none is more vital than the revelation that America, although contributing the bulk of the military forces and the supplies, has surrendered her independence of action and her leadership and has abandoned 360,000 American boys to the whim of foreign cabinets.

When announcement was made for medical examination of all who claimed exemption from military duty in the Civil War, on the ground of physical disability, it was amusing to see how defective many ablebodied men endeavored to make themselves appear to be. Men who had never before been suspected of any infirmity quickly presented themselves to Dr. Fisher, the examining surgeon for this district, and suddenly they had been transformed into lame, halt and blind," a history of the county reports.

"The China Story" Lists U. S. Errors

By George E. Sokolsky

THIS IS A good time to read Freda Utley's "The China Story," a new book which sets out to establish by facts how the United States lost 400,000,000 allies Freda Utley knows the Far East and has written competently concerning it. She states her conclusions:

"One thing is certain. Communist conquest of a large part of the world since the defeat of Germany and Japan, and the threat of even greater conquests, was not unavoidable. In the first part of this book, I shall show how what we did — and what we failed to do—in the Far East led us straight down the path to war in Korea."

SOKOLSKY

This is a bare-to-the-bone, fact upon fact account of how the United States, by error and lack of understanding, not only gave China to Soviet Russia but brought the Korean war upon us. In view of the increasing velocity of the quarrel over facts between General Douglas MacArthur and President Truman, it will be advantageous to check what appears among the controversial writers on the subject against Miss Utley's summary of events.

* * *

ANY UNDERSTANDING of the Far Eastern situation, no matter where one's partisanship lies, must go back to Yalta, the Far Eastern terms of which Miss Utley summarizes as follows:

"1. The lease of Port Arthur to Russia as a naval base;

"2. The 'internationalization' of Dairen with 'pre-eminent rights' for the Soviet Union in this largest of China's northeastern ports;

3. "The 'joint operation' of the Manchurian railways by China and Russia, with the 'pre-eminent interests' of the Soviet Union safeguarded."

It was in pursuit of the Yalta terms that General Marshall was sent to China to manage, cajole, arrange or force Chiang Kai-shek to conform to this agreement to which neither he nor China was a party. A memorandum by Secretary of State James Byrnes (1945) on this subject stated:

"Pending the outcome of General Marshall's discussions with Chinese leaders in Chungking ... further transportation of Chinese troops to North China, except as North China ports may be necessary for the movement of troops and supplies into Manchuria, will be held in abeyance.'

In other words, sanctions were of Soviet Russia. This appeaseimposed upon our ally and friend, nationalist China, in the interest ment has already resulted in the death of more than 10,500 Americans and more than 62,000 casualties.

* * *

GENERAL MARSHALL has never understood either China or communism. Apparently he could not, even in 1947, grasp the nature of Russian imperialism nor the extent of international Marxism. He seemed to be astonished that Chiang Kai-shek would not form an alliance with the Communists and, as Miss Utley says, he accepted Marxist definition of a reactionary. This is what General Marshall declared on Jan. 7, 1947:

"On the side of the national government, which is in effect the Kuomintang, there is a dominant group of reactionaries who have been opposed, in my opinion, to almost every effort I have made to influence the formation of genuine coalition government . . . They were quite frank in publicly stating that their belief that cooperation by the Chinese Communist party in the government was inconceivable and that only a policy of force could settle the issue."

* * *

MISS UTLEY is a former Communist who has devoted much of her life, at great personal sacrifice, to undo the evils of this party. She says of herself:

"I first met Owen Lattimore in Moscow, where I had been living for nearly six years as the wife of a Russian (a Soviet citizen but not a member of the Communist party). I was employed as a research worker in the Pacific Ocean section of the Institute of World Economy and Politics. This institute had become the Russian branch of the Institute of Pacific Relations a year or so earlier when the Kremlin switched over to the 'popular front' policy, and the Communist Academy (of which the institute former a part) was rechristened Academy of Sciences. For the benefit of the visiting Americans, a room had been taken in another part of the town and a notice put up saying 'Soviet Council of the Institute of Pacific Relations.' It was here that E. C. Carter, president of the American Institute, and Owen Lattimore were first received by the leading Communists at the institute. As I had left the Communist party years earlier, I could not attend their private meetings . . ."

News From the Hunt

By TRUMAN TWILL

AS A husband who was trapped at an early age without a struggle, this correspondent is always on the lookout for interesting news about the manhunt which the female of the species carries on every minute of every hour of every day. He loves to watch the girls work.

"One of the factors influencing a girl's chances of becoming a wife is her educational attainment," the statisticians have learned. "The more schooling the lower are her chances of marriage. Thus, in 1947 the proportion ever married among women at ages 35-44 was almost 95 percent for those who had completed less than seven years of school, compared with about 90 percent for the high school graduates, and with 83 percent for women with at least one year of college. However, the girls with higher educational attainment who do marry generally get the men with the greater amount of schooling."

What this means, all statistics aside, is that the best way to get a man is to be a little on the dumb side, but that the way to keep the critter in captivity is to smarten up in a hurry after the wedding cake has been eaten.

The statistics on divorce indicate broadly that not enough women smarten up. Either that, or they played it so dumb they forgot to take a good look at the quarry they brought home alive.

But to get back to the educated females who fail to bag husbands, there is no mystery about this, least of all to the men they didn't capture. Almost without exception, the fugitives ran away because they were scared. When they realized they were in danger, they bolted in the other direction, instead of into the outstretched arms of the woman who was waiting to grab 'em.

They were terrorized by the brain power of their lambie pies.

A woman with no special education and nothing but her reliable instincts to guide her in such matters stands a better chance of not scaring the victim at this crucial moment. It is that simple—and statistics only confirm what millions of people have noted down through the years.

Some of the smartest women on earth are involuntary spinsters. They made the mistake of forgetting that men have a gnawing dread of marrying above their mental station and will break and run at the first sign of mental superiority in the woman who may be mending their socks some day. These females were so smart they forgot to be dumb at the psychologically correct moment for taking the quarry without a struggle.

And now, ladies, back to the manhunt. Tally-ho!

Staggering Idea

SYDNEY—(AP)—The Supervisor of Parks and Gardens at Newcastle plans to rid the city of pigeons by getting them drunk. All the conventional methods have failed, he says. The supervisor, M. Sivert, told a reporter: "The pigeons' attacks on poppy and pansy plants in our parks have frustrated our efforts to beautify the city for the Jubilee celebrations. Every night I'm going to place dishes of rum-soaked wheat in all the parks. "A pigeon with a hangover and the staggers should be an easy victim for early morning catchers," he said.

Rake's Way

HELENA, Mont.—(AP)—Would this man be called rakish? He knocked at Mrs. F. D. Jones' door here, and said he'd like to eat. She gave him a rake and told him to rake the yard while she fixed him a handout. When she went outdoors to give him the lunch he was gone—and so was the rake.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Garble Sisters

"Did you ever see so many investigations, trials, hearings and reports as now? If we don't find out this time how that witness jumped out of the Coney Island hotel room when six cops were guarding him to see that the Wedemeyer report did not leak out and prove the Joint Chiefs of Staff dropped the Anastasia case, we never will."

PHILLIPS

"Why should the public be barred from those Washington hearings?"

"I can't figure it out. The people have a right to know whether O'Dwyer went into Mexico against the advice of Marshall and Bradley and why the report was suppressed for four years."

"Do you think there really was a stenographic record taken on Wake Island at the time of the Moran case or that Halley and the committee just made it up from notes?"

"You've got me. If the racketeers had so much power all over the country why shouldn't their privileged sanctuary be bombed like anywhere else no matter what Costello or Adonis thought?"

* * *

"The Acheson Committee should have gone into the states where its own members lived. Why did they avoid them?"

"I dunno. It looked funny to show up the mobsters in Chicago, San Francisco and New York and not mention Iran, Murfreesboro, Wake Island and Maryland."

"What did you think of the Vogeler case?"

"Why blame him for not enforcing the gambling laws and naming friends of Erickson to office? He wasn't even in the country at the time."

* * *

"Were you surprised at the charges that the Mafia had such a wide influence all over the country?"

"Yes, but how can we wipe out the Mafia if Truman and Acheson won't let us bomb its bases, regardless of what Jessup, Sherman and the Mayor of Saratoga think?"

"New York, Missouri and Florida got a terrific lacing from the MacKellaver Board but how can a watchdog committee do much while the U.N. is negotiating for a cease-fire agreement?"

"The trouble is that a lot of the notes on what happened were taken down in longhand by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and you have got to remember that one of the witnesses just got out of a Hungarian jail and is in no condition to testify."

* * *

"We certainly can't put everything into our fight against the Chinese Reds, the Mafia and corruption in Miami at a time when we may be drawn into a battle to save Europe, Saratoga, Dawson and the Mediterranean."

"Right. The whole thing is global just as MacArthur, Mickey Mantle, Leo Durocher, and Senator Tobey say."

"There's one thing I want to ask. Do you think the Senate Armed Services committee will question Sherman, who was missing since away back before the Formosa issue ever came up?"

"They got Lee's and Grant's stories; why shouldn't they get his?"

WE JOIN with others in deploring the fact that General MacArthur's appearance in Washington was not on television. But we can understand it. The opposition realizes that he goes over so big on the video screens of America, his questioners would have no chance unless they wore low necks and got Milton Berle and Arthur Godfrey into the act.

"Missing Sherman Located: Will Testify"—headline. Maybe he was on his horse across from the Plaza all the time.

A government agency spent $171,000 to get out a pamphlet on the love life of a pair of raccoons, a senator reveals. It seems to us that conditions in Washington made a study of squirrel life more logical, and that it could have been done at little cost.

Perhaps the Warner Brothers want to get away from it all by settling down someplace where they can see an old-fashioned silent picture.

News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO—It was Friday, May 9, 1941.

Waves of British bombers—the biggest RAF smash of the war—dumped "tens of thousands" of fire-bombs and "hundreds of tons" of high explosives on Hamburg and Bremen and also attacked Berlin overnight.

Miss Pauline Parish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Parish of 726 East Church street, was capped into Mortar Board, national women's activities honorary, at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Marion city and county residents were asked to raise $5,000 in a nationwide campaign to obtain $10,765,000 to be used for a recreation and welfare program for service men in army camps and naval stations.

Mrs. H. P. Murray of Sheridan road and Mrs. L. E. Neal of Morral were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Geddis of Caledonia. The occasion marked the 64th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Geddis.

Marion Harding was edged by Kenton 10-9 in semi-finals of the district Class A baseball tournament. Pitching for Marion were Charles Bowers and John Edington.

* * *

TWENTY YEARS AGO—It was Saturday, May 9, 1931.

The International Chamber of Commerce, in session at Washington, went on record with the assertion that war debts, although fixed by treaty, should be opened for re-examination if changed economic conditions were found to warrant such action. A general resolution also called for intensification of effort by the world powers for armament reductions as urged by President Hoover, for removal of all trade barriers including discriminatory tariffs, adherence to private initiative in operation of business, and holding down of governmental expenditures.

Two liquor runners traveling in a large touring car escaped Bucyrus police after an eight-mile running gun battle. One hundred gallons of liquor and the automobile were abandoned on the Marion road eight miles south of Bucyrus.

The annual junior-senior banquet of Caledonia High School was held at Hotel Harding with 50 in attendance. Ralph Snyder was toastmaster.

Miss Eloise Bodley was hostess to the Four D's bridge club at her home on Hane avenue.

Women office employes of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. gave a kitchen shower and dinner bridge for Miss Helen Ward, who was to be married to Clarence Snyder June 7. At the same time, announcement was made of the approaching marriage of Miss Olive Cudd and Harold Williams, set for June 14.

WE AMERICAN JERKS already know all these things and long since threw ourselves on the mercy of the jury. Our friendly critics abroad have been spelling out our faults for us for some 200 years now, and we are so beat down, there's no fight left in us.

Editors have been buying this same article warmed over, hashed up and under a varying by-line, for decades. We threw in the sponge and pleaded guilty long ago. Ain't you heard?

The latest rehash bears the imposing name of Bertrand Lord Russell. And lawsy me, does Bertie burn our britches! Scarce hide or hair left to us since Bertie turned on the heat.

And Bertie knows us. Too, he's been holing up in America from time to time for years, letting the dollars 'oops' there I go, being an American slob again') roll in from lecture tours, books, and a spot of high-priced teaching. And, naturally, taking notes.

HONESTLY, HOW WE have learned to be so repulsive in only 300 years is a caution! Native genius, I guess. But Bertie sees us for what we are. Just a bunch of crass imitators, as the Russians say, with a belt-line system.

Why, we even took the blueprints for the atom bomb from the British, and merely had the sordid lucre to build it.

On the whole, we are a squalid people. Scarcely worth the time Nehru has been wasting on American editors now footloose and traveling in the Far East.

Let's face it. We're hopeless—always trying to give away our filthy billions and expecting $50,000 of raw materials in return. Shylocks!

WELL, SIR I HAVE stood up pretty well under the honeyed words of our Allies. But the editors have gone too far. They have administered the coup de grace to the dumb-cluck American public in the current issue of Harper's magazine, in which the boys have hired an American, one James B. ("Scotty") Reston, to tell us off.

"Why we irritate our Allies," is the title of Mr. Reston's treatise on our vulgar chauvinism, international instability and general orneriness.

We're a bunch of bums, that's what we are. And Mr. Reston writes from the detached vantage point of a man born in Scotland and not brought to this country by careless parents until he was almost a year old. They took the precaution, too, to send him back to Scotland for part of his schooling, so it is hardly likely that Mr. Reston chews gum.

I hate to see American editors sicking American writers on other Americans. Caesar had a phrase for it: Et tu, Brute.

Anyway, boys, lay off!

We've had it! and enough's enough.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

HEARD ON THIS BEAT: WHILE THE headline-provoking probes draw countrywide attention, something new has been added quietly, behind the scenes, to what will make front page stories of the future. At least one key union has begun selling its members strike-insurance. For little less than two bucks a month, each member of the C.I.O. Oil Workers will soon be able to guarantee himself up to $25 a week for as long as he hits the bricks and picket lines—just so long as it isn't a national strike which lasts until it threatens to break his union's bank . . .

If it works, it will sweep through other unions whose big problem ever since the first dues-stamp was invented, has been to feed its people while paralyzing an industry. For [illegible] the answer. And the fact that it comes now, while we're in [illegible] not a war, is significant. It means that [illegible] for the [illegible] has [illegible] Victor Riesel

[illegible] what will the [illegible] entire [illegible] the White House [illegible] Carter [illegible] more to check higher prices and profits this fall. But [illegible] leaders in Washington are [illegible] paring [illegible] for more increases to meet the sky-high wage increases sponsored for all the top businessmen in Washington's highest mobilization board sitting regularly with the President, put it this way to me in the capital the other day:

"We believe that labor has now won tremendous influence with Mr. Truman as a result of their revolt and his eagerness to win friends to offset the reaction to Gen. MacArthur's dismissal. Point now is, how will labor use that influence? Generally speaking, we believe they walked off defense agencies so they could get more voice in government. And now that they have the kind of war wage board they want their drive, inside the board, will be for a greater voice in management of our factories — like authority over speed of production, work assignments and shifts. If so, we'll by-pass the board, the President and everyone else. We'll take it right to Congress and there'll be a hell of a battle."

WHEN WORD OF Phil Murray's illness was flashed to one of his top lieutenants, the aide flew to Pittsburgh, rushed into Mercy Hospital and was met by the grim news that the beloved CIO leader might not live out the night.

The CIO man wept. Came morning and the weary, sleepless visitor finally got word of Murray's condition. The nurse had gone softly into Phil's bedroom expecting the worst — and had found the CIO chief calling his office asking what was in the mail. The hospital's medical staff was startled at his ability to spring back . . .

BEHIND THE SCENES at the House un-American Activities Committee is a bitter feud between Mr. Truman's supporters and those who want a final investigation to clean out the Commies forever from the movie, radio and the new mushrooming television industries. Battling against the White House's quiet orders for a whitewash-hush-hush probe is a bloc led by ex-FBI agent, Rep. Harold Velde. For the whitewash is Mr. Truman's home-state congressman Morgan Moulder, who apparently doesn't communications media as a personal insult.

So I have here a case for the immovable Moulder to mull over. Only the other day I obtained from Peking, which for the congressman's information is the capital of the Sovietized Chinese army now killing our young G.I.s, a magazine called People's China. It is edited by one of the most vicious Commie Chinese axe-artists— Chiao Kuan-hua. On its front page it announced a special supplement, "A Message from New China," by Soong Ching Ling (the Moscow-loving, and vice-versa, Mme Sun Yat Sen).

So I looked at the supplement, Congressman. And it says there on the inside cover that it is a reprint of a speech, cut in China and mailed to the U. S. for a playback at the China Welfare Appeal meeting, Nov. 18, 1950, in New York City. And, Mr. Congressman, do you know who is on the board of sponsors of this pro-Soviet China Welfare Appeal? I'll tell you.

There's that actor, Lee J. Cobb, and those playwrights, Clifford Odets and Arthur Miller, and a lot of other Broadway denizens whom even Damon Runyon's characters would want excluded from decent political society. And do you know what Mme Sun Yat Sen, in that speech, calls the Sovietized armies now slaying the sons of American families, congressman? "The Army of Liberation." Okay, let's hear now from the Hollywood-Broadway Belt, or from your committee, congressman. That's fair, isn't it?

WASHINGTON HEARS that it will be impossible to clean gamblers out of the big plants. The bookies work so openly that they actually have shacks and little stores as headquarters opposite these factories. And because thousands of foremen and small time union officials pick up a $100 to $150-a-week extra shilling for the mobs, a real public house cleaning would embarrass the biggest corporations and unions which are helpless to stop the $20,000,000,000 a year gamblers. So nothing will be done.

State Senate HearsHighway Finance Plan

COLUMBUS, May 9—(AP)—The Ohio House votes today on a bill to tax trucks another $5,000,000 a year. But whatever action it takes will be in the shadow of a complete highway financing plan offered yesterday in the Senate.

The House vote is on the bill which won out in a House committee battle with Gov. Lausche's ton-mile tax plan. It boosts truck license fees an average of 25 percent.

The comprehensive highway financing program offered the Senate by Sen. Ralph W. Winter (R-Medina) would provide about 10 times the amount of highway funds contemplated by the Fink bill, its sponsor estimated.

Winter said his program was developed by the fiscal subcommittee of the Ohio Program Commission's highway committee. Three of the four points are covered by bills and the fourth by a joint Senate-House resolution.

1. An increase in gasoline tax from four to five cents a gallon, estimated to yield on an average of $25,000,000 a year for the next 20 years.

2. An increase in truck and bus license fees to a maximum of $1,500 a year for trucks and $600 a year for buses, estimated to yield another $25,000,000 a year.

3. A new system of highway fund allocations which would give the State Highway Department in excess of 51 percent, the counties 30.23 percent, the cities 14.42 percent and the townships 4.27 percent.

4. A resolution cutting the state highway system to 13,500 miles, the return of some 4,000 miles to county systems and establishing a system of not more than 4,500 of major thoroughfares.

Making Advance Funeral Arrangements

There no longer is any good reason why people who wish to do so should not make advance arrangements for funeral service. Taking such action assures that both service and expense will be in accord with normal desires—not something rushed into during the stress of grief. We invite advance arrangements. To that end we stand ready to frankly discuss funeral service and its cost with anyone interested.

Not So Simple
Operating an ambulance is not as simple as it may seem. Having a fine ambulance is not enough; operating the ambulance must be men of experience, who know what to do and—which is often even more important!—what NOT to do. Schaffner-Denzer ambulance service wins the approval of physicians, and that, we think, is most significant.

14 stuffed olives

Have crown of ribs prepared by your meat dealer. A 7-pound pork rib roast will contain approximately 14 chops Place roast with rib ends turned up on a rack in the roasting pan Fill center of roast with bread stuffing Wrap squares of aluminum foil around both ends to prevent excess browning Cubes of salt pork or of raw potatoes can be used in place of the foil Insert a thermometer into the center point of the stuffing and roast uncovered, in a slow oven (350 F.) until an internal temperature of 180 F is reached Remove from oven, replace aluminum foil on rib ends with stuffed olives Arrange roast on a platter and garnish with celery leaves and spiced crabapples

Note Meat can be basted with barbecue sauce during roasting process for variety It is suggested that extra bread stuffing can be baked in a separate casserole in the same oven for 30 minutes or until an internal temperature of 180 F. is reached.

Head cabbage appears to have been developed in Europe in the 800s
